opening pack: none [3:02am] opening pack: none [3:02am]. 0 comments: pageviews last month bloglovin follow by email about me my name is saudi. in this website, you will be enjoy one of the best collection of all funny videos which you have ever seen. it is very difficult to find a good comedy site like this but we are proud to do all this. in this case. the record is sparse. in construing a statute, the supreme court has often counseled a more general approach to the problem than has been taken by the court below. congress amended the ethics in government act in 1976 in order to subject former government employees to disclosure requirements, but its statutory purpose was "to insure maximum and honest public service in the government by insuring that the standards of ethics and conduct applicable to the government are raised to the highest levels." h.r.rep. no. 94-1656 (conf.), p. 6 (1976), u.s.code cong. & admin.news 1976, pp. 5997, 6019. it is quite clear, however, that congressional emphasis was on disclosure, not immunity. see harlow v. fitzgerald, 457 u. 800, 817 n. *, 102 s.ct. 2727, 2738 n. * (1992) (rehnquist, j., dissenting). as we explained above, this complaint does not seek disclosure. but congress has not provided any sanctions for the violation of disclosure statutes, see section 7431(b)(2), and the criminal penalties which apply only to willful violations are not available in a civil action. id. (immunity thus is not a necessary aspect of a citizen's right to bring suit in the courts); see also 18 u.c. sec. 3571(b) (criminal penalty for non-willful violation of the act); cf. united states v. freedman, 569 f.2d 1096, 1101-02 (9th cir.1978) (declining to imply criminal penalty under the act for willful violation of section 5861(d)). 19 the only reported case on the subject, decided by the district of columbia circuit, held that the act's immunity was absolute. rainey v. jackson state college, 485 f.2d 1150 (d.cir.1973). since rainey was decided, congress amended the act to provide for non-immunity in cases involving persons designated as officers or employees of the legislative, executive or judicial branches, 42 u. 7431(b)(2)(a), but not for former federal employees. the opinion in rainey has not been overruled, and it certainly does not govern our decision today. it is neither binding nor persuasive authority here, and only an examination of the legislative history of section 7431(b)(2)(a) warrants the conclusion that congress did not intend to disturb the immunity which has been recognized in the earlier decisions of this circuit. congress, it must be assumed, was aware of rainey and its holding when it enacted section 7431(b)(2)(a), but nonetheless amended the act to provide for non-immunity in this limited class of cases.
