Malwarebytes Activate License Free [PORTABLE]

hey man, i wanted to get a 2nd opinion on this. ive been having problems since this weekend with malwarebytes. it is basically telling me that i am no longer eligible for a premium or full version license. i had previously purchased the full version once before this happened and it never worked properly. i was having a lot of problems with my browser plug-ins and programs. i have uninstalled, reinstalled and uninstalled, re-installed and re-uninstalled, then finally i have just gone ahead and purchased the full version of malwarebytes. i received the activation key and i am currently using it in beta mode. the first stage of this program is to collect data from our users. what keys are still alive, and who are they used by. if you are a true pirate, the furthest you will get is a year's worth of malwarebytes. i wish we could handle each of the keys manually and determine if they are legitimate, but there are tens of millions of them and so we've automated the process a bit to cut them down. after that cut down, which is when a user selects an option, we will be going through the uses manually. i have just followed the instructions you provided but it still displays the same message when i try to change licence and enter my key again. i have also tried to click deactivate and it doesn't do anything. uninstalling and installing again, i do not need to re-enter my key, it remembered that it was activated which is quite strange. it is the 1st of its kind security program to provide a user a free trial and a 30 day free trial. the malwarebytes free trial is legit and its main aim is to provide a free demo which a user can use to check the performance of this new software. the free trial for malwarebytes premium is a 30 day trial version. this 30 day trial version is available for use by an individual who owns a valid license for malwarebytes premium for the duration of the free trial.
