Mercedes Benz Xentry keygen Download 72Former Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort met a top executive at Russian statebacked TV network RT in 2016, leading to a payment to the network that has reared its head in the ongoing investigation into Russia's role in the 2016 presidential election. Manafort met with RT chief news director Margarita Simonyan, according to a report from Yahoo News' Ken Dilanian. The exchange came during a meeting between Manafort and Simonyan at the New York Public Library, according to the report. Manafort did not disclose the meeting on his applications for two federal registrations of foreign agents at the time. Only when Manafort was contacted by The Associated Press, which earlier in the day had reported that Manafort was connected to his associate, the former Trump campaign chairman acknowledged the meeting. Manafort told Yahoo News' Dilanian that he attended the meeting as a representative for the Russian government-funded outlet. "I believe I was present with another American, which I can't recall who the second person might have been, in an off-the-record meeting" with Simonyan, Manafort said. "I attended the meeting because I was asked to do so by the host, I believe, in a private capacity." Manafort did not reveal the contents of the exchange to Yahoo News. Manafort told Dilanian he didn't "recall anything about being lobbied." RT frequently employs Trump administration officials to give positive coverage in the media and discourage political reporting unfavorable to the Russian government, according to recent reports. Manafort's meeting with Simonyan comes on the heels of a report from Yahoo News that former Trump campaign staffer Michael Caputo described a meeting between Manafort and a RT correspondent. Caputo said Simonyan invited him to an informal lunch at a Manhattan restaurant
